Not illustrated. 1853 Excerpt: . . . the people of all nations, in their patriotic devotions to country and humanity. With Christians, there is yet a nobler and a higher thought in regard to Mr. Clay. They will think of him in connexion with eternity. They will contemplate his immortal spirit, occupying its true relative magnitude among the moral stars of glory in the presence of God. They will think of him as having fulfilled the duties allotted to him on earth, having been regenerated by Divine grace, and having passed through the valley of the shadow of death, and reached an everlasting and happy home in that house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. On Sunday morning last, I was watching alone at Mr. Clays bedside. For the last hour he had been unusually quiet, and I thought he was sleeping. In that, however, he told me l...
